What does solar panel insurance cover in the UK?

Solar panel insurance in the UK often covers damages from storms, floods, fires, theft, and even vandalism. Some policies also provide coverage for loss of income due to panel downtime caused by any of these damages, ensuring that the panel owner's financial interests are secured.

How much does solar panel home insurance cost?

The annual cost of solar panel home insurance ranges from £118 to £152, which seems reasonable compared to the potential risks. Once you decide to install solar panels, inform your home insurer. Solar panels contribute to rebuilding your home's value, so it's important to list them in the insurance coverage.

What is solar panel insurance & how does it work?

Solar panel insurance shields homeowners from financial losses due to damage, theft, or other unforeseen events affecting their solar energy systems. Let's dive into solar panel insurance in the UK and see how it can keep your roof (and your bank account) happy. What is not covered by solar panel insurance?

Does home insurance cover solar panels?

Wear and tear is a standard exclusion for home insurance policies, which also applies to solar panels. This means you won't be able to make a claim if your panels degrade over time. Keeping your panels well-maintained is important for getting the best results from your system.

Should I tell my insurance if I have solar panels?

It's a good idea to let your insurer know if you are making any significant home improvements that may affect the structure such as fitting solar panels. This is mainly because your home may be at greater risk from damage or theft while the work is being completed, particularly if you have scaffolding up.

Are solar panels included in buildings insurance?

Most providers include solar panels in buildings insurance, treating them as part of the fabric of your home, just like the doors, floors, and walls. However, these policies can be insufficiently comprehensive, unless you pay extra. This means you can often attain a better level of cover if you get solar panel insurance separately.
