How to use a juicing cup holder?

After the juice is squeezed, you can unscrew the cup holder and drink directly, or you can pour the drink into a water cup for drinking, or you can use your habit to insert it directly from the cup holder into the mixing cup for drinking. Gently shake the product during the working process of the product, and the stirring effect will be better.

Do battery-powered blenders come with different cup sizes?

Some battery-powered blenders do come with various cup sizes, which is great as you could just use the one that you need when making a certain quantity of smoothies. There is no point buying a large cup size if you only make single portions, or a small cup size if you make two or three smoothies in one go.
